P R E F A C E

Emanuel Henry Martin of Marion County, East Florida, whose descendants this work is designed to contain, had ten children, seven of whom had families, namely:

Ann Elizabeth	Isaiah Abraham
Abraham Geiger	Harmon Charles
Henry Emanuel	William Eli
James Samuel	John Ulrich
Martha Jane	Elizabeth Jane

Records show that Emanuel Henry Martin had 68 grandchildren, about 174 great grandchildren and to date no fewer than 211 great, great grandchildren. In our index we have approximately 330 persons who carry the name Martin and 1400 other names, (husbands, wives, children, etc.).

The writer is aware that this work is not complete in its account of some branches of the family, but where the defect exists it is owing to the fact that the information has not been made available to the writer.

Every effort has been used to make these records as full and correct as possible. Personal search has been made of records in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, Texas and the National Archives in Washington, D.C. Old grave yards have been searched, and time-worn inscriptions on tombstones have been carefully deciphered. Family Bible records, State archives, and the archives of probate courts have been consulted. All the older people and the heads of every family have been either visited or contacted in correspondence. This genealogy covers a period of 158 years and I have lived 55 years of this time, twenty-eight years having been used in its preparation. I have had a chance to personally know something of six generations of the seven generations treated and information about those persons living today was furnished by their parents, by themselves or by some member of their family. Some names, dates of births, deaths and marriages may be incorrect, but in all such cases the writer has given the information as it was furnished to him. However, it is hoped, from the care exercised, that few errors will be found either in names or dates.

The Armed Service Records are shown for the six sons of Emanuel Henry Martin, all of whom served in the Confederate Army. The service record for subsequent generations is not given. The occupations and the educational attainments for the most part are not given, and it is no reflection where they are not shown.

It is believed that these records contain much information in relation to "our father's house," which are worth preserving; much that is valuable now, and which will become more so as time passes and the names and histories of those now living, as well as of those "gone before," may have been forgotten.

As a convenience to the family, we have placed several blank pages before the index of the book, so that you may write in subsequent family history as it occurs throughout the coming years. Then, truly, your family genealogy will stay up to date.

We have used a regular outline form rather than the most widely used form of listings in a genealogy. It is hoped that some day the original immigrant from Europe may be definitely identified and at such time the genealogy may be rewritten, starting it with the first immigrant.

I am grateful to each one of the large number of persons who have assisted in securing this information, to my two children Mary Duane Martin and George Elam Martin who have exemplified a genuine interest in this project.

Finally, I am particularly grateful to my wife, Mable Dougal Martin, who has assisted in the research and who has done the typing requisite for this book.

FAMILY COAT - OF - ARMS

The coat-of-arms has no real part in the standing of the American family, however, it is interesting to know that there are several coats of arms to which the Martin ancestors were entitled. We have been able to secure one of the Martin Coat-of-Arms and have reproduced it in five colors on the cover.

MOTTO: "My help is from the Lord"

ARMS: A blue shield supporting a silver calvary cross resting on three silver steps; the golden sun with human face environed with rays on left limb and silver crescent moon on right limb.

CREST: A wavy gold star of six points.

The blue of the shield signifies a spotless reputation.

The silver of the cross of calvary signifies gentleness and purity.

The three steps upon which the cross rests are said to signify faith, hope and charity.

The collar and badge represent any order to which the bearer may have a right.

THE NAME "MARTIN"

The name Martin is of Latin origin and means "War-like". It is derived from the word "Martuis" which was taken from MARS, the anthological God of War and spread throughout the civilized world along with the Roman Legions. Later it is found in German and all of the Romance languages. The name is found in the earliest record of New England and it appears in nearly every succeeding wave of immigrants coming to the United States before 1800.

The Roman numerals I - X identify the children of Emanuel Henry Martin.

A - B, The capital letters of the alphabet identify the grandchildren of Emanuel Henry Martin.

1 - 10-- The arabic numerals identify the great grandchildren of Emanuel Henry Martin.

a - b,.. The lower case letters of the alphabet denote the fourth generation of children of Emanuel Henry Martin.

(1)-(2)... The arabic numerals in parenthesis denote the fifth generation of children of Emanuel Henry Martin.

(a) - (b)... The lower case letters in parenthesis denote the sixth generation of children of Emanuel Henry Martin.

CONDITIONS IN FLORIDA

Some conditions in Florida During the Life of Emanuel Henry Martin, 1804 - 1851.

The Seminoles were well established in the area of present day Alachua and Marion Counties by 1736. Relatively unmolested by the Spanish and the English, they were contented in farming small plots of the good land, grazing their cattle on the lush grasses of Payne's Prairie and hunting the plentiful game over the area they claimed by right of possession.

Florida was bought from Spain in 1819 and in 1821 and 1822 organized as the Territory of East Florida and West Florida by Governor Andrew Jackson. Settlers from Georgia immediately began coming into the Florida territory over the Alachua trail.¹ Boats came up Black Creek to Middleburg; boats also came up the St. Johns River to Picolata² and 1824 a mail route was established from Picolata, via Orange Springs to Micanopy.

Early in 1822 at Fort Moultrie a treaty was signed giving and restricting the Indians to an area in the central part of the peninsula extending from Alachua to Lake Okeechobee. Micanopy, head chief of all the Seminole tribes lived near Micanopy on the northern boundary set by the 1822 treaty. This boundary seemed to have cut through his village. And by July of the same year, 1822, the Indians complained, that the white men were₃ settling in and near their towns which they did not like.³

2. John Lee Williams, "The Territory of Florida" first printed in 1837.

3. Carter, "Territorial Papers of the United States," Vol. 22, page 503.

To encourage more settlers to Florida, Congress, on April 22, 1826 passed an act authorizing citizens of the United States to settle upon public lands where no individual claims were in opposition, giving public notice of location, where the settlement is intended to be made, with permission to remain on same, paying the United States the value which may hereafter be determined.⁴

This offer of public lands was an inducement for Emanuel and his wife Mary Geiger to go to Alachua County, East Florida shortly after their marriage in 1826.⁵ They started farming on land that was within a few hours walking distance of Chief Micanopy's village.

A memorial, of the settlers to President Adams, dated March 6, 1826 informed the president that the Indians located in Florida near Alachua, were roaming at large over the County, doing serious mischief to the inhabitants by killing their cattle and hogs, robbing their plantation and enticing away their slaves, from time to time the memorializers have made their complaints to the Governor and Indian agent, who are unable to enforce orders in the Indian Nation for want of Military Aid.⁶

4. Carter: "Territorial Papers of the United States"
Vol. 23, page 689.

5. Information in the family Bible and information received from his children over thirty(30) years ago indicates that Emanuel and Mary first came to Florida in 1826.

6. Carter, "Territorial Papers of the United States",
Vol. 23, pages 462-463. Memorial to the President by inhabitants of St. Johns County dated March 6, 1826---also in the National Archives, Office of Indian Affairs, letters received Florida territory.

On May 24, 1827 when their first child, Ann Elizabeth, was seven months old, Emanuel drove the team to Newnansville, East Florida for provisions. After dark, Mary, who was left at home, was sitting in a rocking chair, the child up in her arms with its head over her shoulder and a slave girl standing near fanning them, when they were attacked by several Indians. The slave girl and the child were killed by arrows. Mary still holding the child saw the Indians setting fire to the kitchen cabin as she ran, hiding in a "tree-fall" near by. As she watched, the house and other buildings were burned. The Indians then came looking for Mary. As it had grown dark the Indians soon gave up the search. Mary, with the mortally wounded child in her arms made her way to the fort near Micanopy where her husband joined her later.⁷

Shortly after this Emanuel and Mary went back to Georgia only to return either in 1831 or 1833.⁸ At this time, it is thought, they settled at Pine, between Citra and Fort McCoy even before the land had been surveyed.⁹ This area was all in Alachua County at that time and it was in the Indian reservation as set in 1822.

The lands granted the Indians in the Treaty of Moultrie Creek in 1822 were taken away in the treaties of Payne's Landing--1832 and Fort Gibson in 1833. And in 1832 President Jackson set out on a policy of removing the Indians from Florida to the reservation West of the Mississippi River. This program met with continuing resistance and in 1835 this area of Florida was plunged into the bloody Seminole War that lasted seven years.

Hardy indeed, were the few settlers to build a log cabin, start farming on a few freshly cleared acres of pine or hammock land, and still brave the mortal struggle between Indians and Whites for the wilderness.

Then on August 4, 1842, Congress approved the Armed Occupation and Settlement Act. The object of the act was to encourage settlers who were willing and capable to bear arms against the Indians to settle on the public lands south of the line dividing townships numbers nine and ten south in the peninsula of East Florida in order to hold the Indians in check. On the 10th day of February 1843, at Newnansville, East Florida, Emanuel Henry Martin made application under the Armed Occupation Act,¹⁰ for 160 acres of Indian lands.

It is not known if he ever received a clear title to this land. But April 25, 1846 he acquired additional property in Section 17, Township 13 south, Range 23 East.¹¹

Emanuel Henry Martin was a farmer growing such crops as sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, rice, sugar cane, corn and miscellaneous field crops. Vegetables as peas, greens, strawberries, tomatoes and other vegetables were grown in the "Kitchen Garden" for use on the table. Hogs and cattle were raised on the open range and his principal wealth was in cattle. Panthers were destructive to calves while bears destroyed hogs and were a menace to sheep and settlers alike.

The 1830's were boom days in Florida. Tallahassee was settled in 1824 and the Union National Bank of Tallahassee incorporated in 1833 with a capital of one million dollars.¹² Jacksonville had a population of 100 people in 1831¹³ and the 1830 census shows Alachua County had:

898	white males
691	white females
597	slaves
14	free people of color.

Just when the first white family settled in Alachua County is not known but about 1820 Frederick S. Warburg of Hamburg, Germany brought 22 settlers to the settlement at Warburg Lake about 1-1/2 miles from Micanopy.¹⁴

Frederick W. Dau's 1840 map including Alachua County shows no Gainesville on it at that time, however it does show four forts in the county: located in the area around Micanopy, Gainesville and Newnansville.

EMANUEL HENRY MARTIN Genealogy

Information at hand indicates that John Martin (Grandfather of Emanuel Henry Martin) was a German who settled in South Carolina and was living during the Revolutionary War. He was a preacher of the German Baptist or Dunker denomination of Christians. One of his sons was named James Martin, who reared a family of several sons and daughters, among them our forebear, Emanuel Henry Martin. James Martin was a preacher of the Baptist denomination with his father.²⁸

A number of German protestants settled in the Carolinas, Georgia and Pennsylvania from 1727 to 1775. Just prior to and during this time some areas of Europe were ravaged by war, economic and religious tyranny, all of which helped induce these people to go first to Ireland or England and some to move on to America.

The German protestants were deeply religious, honest and industrious. They lived within their own social group and held to their native language and customs.²⁹

The pioneer settlers did not struggle through the wilderness alone. Several families, usually relatives and others traveled together as they emigrated. The Martins and the Geigers were in South Carolina, 1737-1766, later in Effingham County, Georgia, 1734-1790, then still later on to Alachua County, Florida, 1821-1833.

May 20, 1733, Georgia received Indian lands known as the Creek Cession. In 1758 political sub-divisions known as Parishes were formed from these lands. Then Feb. 5, 1777 eight original counties were formed from the Parishes.

28. From a sketch of the Martin family written on the back of an old deed record in the County Clerks office, Uvalde, Texas, written in the handwriting of A.G. Martin, the oldest son of Emanuel Henry Martin, and a great grandson of this John Martin. This record was brought to light by W.A. Hensarling while searching these old files for data affecting certain land titles and it was published in the Uvalde, Texas News-Monitor, May 6, 1921.

EMANUEL HENRY MARTIN

Emanuel Henry Martin, the son of James Martin was born September 23, 1804 and six years after Florida became a state he died on May 2, 1851 at Pine, Marion County, Fla., of pneumonia and is buried in Indian Lake Cemetery on the old road between Anthony and Ft. McCoy, Fla. On February 19, 1826 he married his cousin, Mary Geiger, daughter of Felix Geiger and his wife Mary (Martin) of Bullock County, Georgia. Mary Geiger was born July 1, 1806 and died Dec. 17, 1885⁴⁰ and is buried beside her husband in Indian Lake Cemetery. Ten children were born to this marriage.

Emanuel Henry Martin was a farmer by trade and was a strong believer in the doctrines advocated by Alexander Campbell of Bethany, Va.

He and Mary came to Micanopy, Fla., shortly after their marriage and started farming. They returned to Georgia after their first child was killed by the Indians in 1827 but returned to Florida in 1831 or 1833. At this time it is thought they settled at the old Greenwood settlement (later Pine) between the present towns of Citra and Fort McCoy. Their farm seemed to have been actually on the Indian reservation. Emanuel joined the group of settlers serving as volunteers bearing arms to hold the Indians in check. This duty was continued through all of the Seminole War.

Some 40 acres of additional land was acquired in 1846, located Section 17, Township 13 S, Range 23 E in the Pine area.⁴¹

40. The 1885 date of death was taken from the grave stone. 1886 is given as the date of her death in a transcript of the E. H. Martin Bible records. This transcript was made in July 1931 by H. T. Hall and he states "The record is so old the figures have faded....."

41. Document 349, Land Office records, National Archives, Washington, D. C.

Emanuel was one of the early road Commissioners of the territory,⁴² and County Commissioner of Marion County, Fla., District one in 1847.⁴³ We do not have the record for the total time he served as County Commissioner.

After her husband's death Mary remarried "the man she married was named Bostic. He made way with much of the property. He was very much younger than Grandmother and after (an alleged) attempt to kill her the men of the community drove him off and the marriage was annulled. She again took the name of Martin. This was the unfortunate incident of the family and it was never referred to. Mother gave me this information only a few years ago."⁴⁴

Emanuel's Will was probated July 28, 1856. See pages 26 - 28 for this document.

- I. Ann Elizabeth Martin (Apr. 17, 1827-May 24, 1827)

The first child of Emanuel Henry Martin and his wife Mary Geiger was probably born at Micanopy, Fla., she was killed by an Indian arrow and is thought to have been buried at Micanopy, Fla.

II. Abraham Geiger Martin (April 13, 1828-Sept. 8, 1900)

Abraham Geiger Martin, second child and oldest son of Emanuel Henry Martin was born April 13, 1828 probably in Bryan County, Georgia, and he was with his parents when they returned to Florida. His childhood and youth was spent in the territory of East Florida, in the area of Marion County.

A little over two years after Texas entered the United States, Abraham, in March of 1848, at twenty years of age, went to Texas, locating at Sequin, Guadalupe County, where he engaged in farming. Feb. 1, 1853 he married Angela Navarro, daughter of Luciano Navarro who was a relative of Angel Navarro, one of the original settlers of San Antonio, Texas and the father of Jose Antonio Navarro. Angela was born 1825 in Texas.

"She died in the spring of 1880 at the home of her son Isaiah L. Martin in Brackettville, Texas. She is buried in the old cemetery in Brackettville."⁴⁵

Angela Navarro first married Col. Wm. Cook and one child, a boy, William Cook, was born to this union. After divorcing Col. Wm. Cook, Angela secondly married Abraham Geiger Martin. One child, a boy, Isaiah Luciano Martin was born to Abraham and Angela. In the fall of 1856, Abraham and Angela moved to Atascosa County, Texas. In June of 1857⁴⁶ Angela left Abraham, taking her two boys and went to live with her father, Luciano Navarro.

45. Taken from a letter dated June 10, 1963, of Edna White, granddaughter of Angela Navarro Cook Martin.

46. Dates and other information about Abraham Geiger Martin were taken from writings made by himself about 1875 when he was clerk of district court, Atascosa County, Texas.

April 28, 1859 Abraham secondly married Mary Rutledge in Atascosa County, Texas at which time Mary was seventeen and Abraham was thirty-one. Mary Rutledge was born 1843, died in 1932 and is buried in Pleasanton, Texas. Eleven children, four boys and seven girls were born to this union. Even though he had a long political life, Abraham was never defeated in an election for public office.

He enlisted in the Confederate Army, in Atascosa Co. Texas on April 10, 1862 for three years or for the War-- served in the Texas Mounted Riflemen C. S. A. Rank: private. Date of discharge: not given.⁴⁷

Religiously he was a Missionary Baptist. Quoting from a note written by Abraham he says of himself, ---"he was made deputy county clerk and after working there some time was elected Clerk of the District Court of Guadalupe County. In the fall of 1856 he moved to Atascosa County."

Continuing his political life, he was elected County Judge of Atascosa County, Texas while still serving in the Confederate Army and served from July 7, 1866 to May 20, 1867. He was elected County and District Clerk Dec. 13, 1873 making his oldest son Henry G. Martin his Deputy. This association continued until Nov. 25, 1890 when Abraham refused to run for reelection and his son Henry was elected County and District Clerk in his place. Two years later Abraham was again elected County Judge in 1892 and served until November 28, 1894. He refused to run again for this office but went back to the clerk's office and served under Henry G. Martin, his son, as Deputy until his death.⁴⁸

After having twelve children and a long political life he died Sept. 8 or 10, 1900 at 72 years, 5 months of age and is buried in Pleasanton, Texas.⁴⁸

IV. James Samuel Martin (1832-1907)

The fourth child and third son of Emanuel Henry Martin was born March 20, 1832 either in Alachua County, Fla. or in Bryan County, Georgia.⁴⁹ He died at Micanopy, Fla. in 1907 and is buried at Ft. McCoy, Fla.

His father died in 1851 and the next March, 1852 James Samuel married Cornelia A. Boyles of Ft. McCoy, Fla., daughter of Captain Hamilton Boyles, a former English Sea Captain, and his wife Francis Mary Mitchell of Maine. Cornelia was born March 6, 1836 in Telfair County, Georgia and died of stomach trouble, Feb. 2, 1889 at Island Grove, Fla. and is buried at Ft. McCoy, Fla. Religiously she was a Baptist, and she served the community as a midwife.

Receiving 79 head of stock cattle and 20 acres of land from his father's estate James continued farming on the old home place.

In 1862 he enlisted in the Confederate Army. Served in Florida 1st Infantry from Alachua County. Rank-not given. Discharged May 20, 1865.⁵⁰

About 1874 he acquired a section of land on the east shore of Orange Lake where he first built a double pen two story log house. Cattle and hogs were raised on the open range. Field crops included sugar cane, sweet potatoes, corn and cotton. An orange grove was set soon after acquiring the land for the 1886-87 Florida State Gazetteer lists him as an Orange grower with 10 acres of grove.⁵¹

James is reported to have been a member of the old 'Orange Creek Baptist Church' from its beginning until it was disbanded. He was one of the first deacons of the Baptist Church at Island Grove, Fla.

Before there was a public school at Island Grove he and William Cassels would alternate in an annual three month term in teaching a private school for their children and later the children of W. T. Carlton were included.⁵²

After Cornelia's death, James secondly married Rachel Tompkins, Jan. 1, 1891. She was a widow with four grown children. After this marriage the property was gradually disposed of and common family discussion is that James' children never received any part of it. There were no children from the second marriage. There were seven children from his first marriage.

IV. F. James Hamilton Martin (Apr. 4, 1873-May 9, 1959)

The sixth child and second son of James Samuel Martin was born April 4, 1873 in Marion County, Florida, either near Citra or at Orange Springs.⁵³ He died in Thomasville, Ga., May 9, 1959 and is buried in Lot No. 11 on 14th Street in the Laurel Hill Cemetery, Thomasville, Ga. Quoting from this same letter of 1928 he says "James Hamilton Martin, was born near Citra, Fla., on a farm, in a log house--raised from one year to fourteen years of age at Island Grove in an orange grove and on farm-- penning cows and pigs, eating oranges, peaches and syrup. Educated from first to tenth grade in public schools and hired schools in Florida, thence to Alabama through 12th grade and one year college and graduate of Birmingham Business College. Bookkeeping--stenography, typewriting-- 2 years Extension course, Presbyterian school of theology-- 2 years Extension course Seminary Hill Texas-- Baptist."

He was a farmer, school teacher, salesman, merchant and Baptist minister. He married his cousin Clara Elizabeth Martin, May 5, 1897 in Palmetto, Florida. Clara Martin is the daughter of Harmon Charles Martin and his wife Elizabeth Jane Carlton who lived at Ft. McCoy, Fla. Clara was a school teacher before marriage and some thirty years and 10 children later she taught school again. Her address is: Route 3, Box 189, Palatka, Florida.

There were ten children to this marriage.

53. In a letter to his daughter, Verna Sisley in October of 1928, he states that he was born near Citra, Fla. The necessary papers, for birth certificates for several of his children were completed at one time, and he was working away from home at this time. Mother thought he was born in Orange Springs. Hence, Orange Springs appears on his children's birth certificates as the birthplace of their father, James Hamilton Martin. I was present at the time and remember the incident.

- IV. F. James Hamilton Martin secondly married Tommie Mims, January 4, 1936 in Alabama. Tommie is the daughter of David Nixon Mims and his wife Mattie Boatwright who lived at Boston, Georgia. There was one child, a boy, to this marriage, Donald Nixon Martin.

The ten children of James Hamilton Martin and Clara Elizabeth Martin and great grandchildren of Emanuel Henry Martin are as follows:

1. Otto Martin (Oct. 22, 1898 - Dec. 5, 1901)

Otto died of blood poisoning a few hours after the birth of his sister Ilene. The statement "I want to see my little sister" was among the last words he spoke. He is buried in the Carlton Cemetery in Island Grove, Fla.

She was born in Island Grove, Fla., taught school for a short time and on December 17, 1919 married James Lafayette Freeman of Hamlet, N.C. Mr. Freeman was born August 12, 1863 and had several children by his first wife. After Mr. Freeman's death Dec. 31, 1925 Ilene supported herself and one son by working as a stenographer and bookkeeper and later as a practical nurse. Two boys were born to this union. X. Elizabeth Jane Martin (1849-1931) was born Dec. 7, 1849 at the old home place at Pine, Marion County, Fla. She died June 1, 1931 and is buried at Ft. McCoy, Fla.

Jane, as she was known, was the tenth and youngest child of Emanuel Henry Martin and his wife Mary Geiger. Jane was the only girl of this family to reach adulthood, the other two girls having died in childhood. Jane was only two years old when her father died, and when the estate was settled July 28, 1856 the Court appointed her older brother Henry Emanuel Martin as her legal guardian. This was also the case with the twins John and William who were seven years old when their father died. I do not know that these three children actually went immediately to the home of Henry Emanuel to live. But I rather think the legal guardianship was made to help secure the proportion of the Father's estate rightly belonging to these minor children, and that the home was kept in some semblance of tack. From the estate, Jane received 117 head of stock cattle, 8 steers and 40 acres of land.

At 18 years of age Jane married James Edward Beaumont Hall on March 4, 1867. Mr. Hall was a farmer and they continued to live either on her father's old home place or near to it at Pine, Marion County, Fla. Eight children were born to this marriage.

The children of Elizabeth Jane Martin and her husband James Beaumont Hall who are grandchildren of Emanuel Henry Martin I.

A FLORIDA HOME

The home made by Emanuel Henry Martin, I (1804-1851) in Alachua County, The Territory of East Florida, just 60 years after the Revolutionary War, was a log structure with riven floor boards and riven shingles. A rail fence enclosed the crops while cattle and hogs grazed on an open range.

The kitchen garden and the field crops furnished food for the family and some animal food. Water was gotten from an open well with the help of a well sweep. In the early days their cooking was done in an open fireplace. An iron cook stove was later acquired.

The main wealth of the family was in cattle. Money was kept in cash and few items as coffee, salt, spices, thread, flour, tools, animals and land were purchased. I have a record of three slaves in the home. Tallow candles were in use, some thread was spun and woven into cloth.

Cotton, sugar cane, corn, rice, sweet potatoes, garden vegetables, peaches and grapes were raised. Panthers were destructive to calves, while bears would prey upon small pigs.

Roads were started as a blazed trail in the wilderness dependent then upon the farmer's carts and wagons to beat down the brush and form distinct ruts. A particularly swampy place was reinforced with a sort of corduroy constructed of logs laid together transversely across the road.⁷²

72. Information from James H. Martin, Clara E. Martin and Mary Martin, Grandchildren of Emanuel Henry Martin.

The first home made by James Samuel Martin (1832-1907) at Island Grove, Alachua County, Fla., just prior to the Civil War was a double pen two story log structure with a breezeway and the back part one story for the kitchen and dining room. An iron wood burning stove was used for cooking. The house was heated in winter with an open fire place.

The garden and the field crops supplied food for the family and for the animals. Water was drawn from an open well in a bucket suspended from one end of a long pole pivoted on an upright post. The garden was tended by the lady of the house to supply food for the table. Such plants as field peas, tomatoes, turnips, mustard greens, strawberries, cassava, waxbeans and irish potatoes, were grown. The field crops included sweet potatoes, sugar cane, corn, hay, peanuts, and rice. An orange grove was flourishing, 10 acres in 1886,⁷³ and peachtrees were set for home use. The grape arbor stood between the house and the outdoor toilet.

Brown sugar and syrup was always plentiful. Rice was husked with a wooden mortar and pestle, corn was ground in the community mill to make meal and grits. Soap was made by cooking animal fat with water rich in potash leached from hickory and oak ashes.

There was no refrigeration. To keep the milk cool, an open safe was draped with cheesecloth kept moist from a pan of water sitting on top of the safe.⁷⁴ The wealth was in cattle, orange grove and land. The community of Island Grove was largely settled on the land James (Jim) Martin had owned.

73. Florida Gazetteer, 1886-7.

74. From my father who lived in this home, also from Annis Thompson who lived less than a mile from this home.

The home (where I was reared) was made by James Hamilton Martin at Island Grove, Alachua County, Florida, a single story wooden framed house with novelty siding. It rested on fat wooden blocks three feet off the ground. The five rooms of the main house opened into a hallway extending from the front porch to the back porch. The back part of the house, consisted of the kitchen, dining room and pantry, with a breezeway between this and the main body of the house.

The parlor contained the piano, stereoscope and the regular furnituré of the day. The hand cranked phone hung in the hall near the front door. It was placed high on the wall, and we children had to tiptoe to reach it. It was powered by batteries and several magnets. This was truly a party line for we heard every ring on the line. In winter the house was heated from two open fireplaces. Each one of the four bedrooms had a double bed and a dresser, and one bedroom had two double beds. There were no screens until about 1920 and before that each bed was equipped with mosquito netting. Windows were fitted with storm shutters on hinges so as to be closed when needed.

Mattresses were made of the black Spanish Moss. Every spring each mattress was opened, the moss sunned, "picked" or fluffed up, the ticking washed and then restuffed. To tack the mattress a needle made from an umbrella rib was used.

The backporch extended the full distance of the kitchen and dining room. A wash shelf about 30 inches high and some 8 feet long was near the edge. A pail of water, a dipper, wash basin, octagon soap and a towell were always there. The waste water was thrown onto a very luxuriant papyrus plant. After the chores at night--one's feet were washed in a foot tub. A regular wash tub was used when a full bath was indicated. The open well was placed near the front gate and water was drawn with a chain drawn over the well pulley and fastened to the water bucket.

Wash days saw the use of Octagon soap, wooden scrub-board, clothes paddle, beating block and iron washpot.

Kerosene lamps and kerosene lanterns were used for light.

A large wood burning stove with warming oven above and a hot water reservoir adjacent to the fire box stood near one wall of the kitchen.

A common breakfast consisted of cornmeal mush with milk and sugar, eggs and rice, bacon or ham, hot biscuit and syrup, with milk to drink. In fact biscuit was on the regular menu with yeast rolls or loaf bread for Sundays and special occasions. The after school snack was a cold biscuit with a hole in it filled with syrup or a cold baked sweet potato.

Sweet potatoes were banked in conical piles covered with pine straw, tree bark and sand. Hay was stored in the barn or stacked outside. Corn was kept in the barn. Our fruit trees included peaches, figs, pears, plums, Japanese persimmons, oranges, tangerines, grapefruit and pomegranate. Cattle were penned on a plot of land chosen for the next sweet potato patch. The following year this same land would be planted to sugar cane making further use of the fertilizer. Syrup was stored in wooden barrels or in nondescript glass bottles.

The main money crop was in vegetables, which included wax beans, lettuce, fordhook lima beans, squash and English peas. Other than this, farming was done in much the same way as his father and grandfather had farmed.

In addition to farming James Hamilton Martin was a merchant, salesman, school teacher and Baptist preacher and the home was supplied with many books and magazines. When I was in high school I was reading such magazines as the "Youth's Companion," "Baptist Witness", "McCalls" and several others. There were at least six magazines available in the home, and we had the first radio in Island Grove.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Emanuel Henry Martin and Mary Geiger had ten children first, fifth and tenth was a girl.

Each child of Emanuel Henry's that had a family--had from seven to twelve children of their own.

Nine children of Harmon Charles Martin taught school--a tenth child died in childhood.

Ft. McCoy was settled about 1835.

When Island Grove Baptist Church was organized, Jan. 4, 1891, James Samuel Martin was elected Church Clerk. (Page 3 of the Church Records)

Orange Springs was more popular as a resort than Silver Springs in 1900.

In 1886, Moss Bluff had stage communications with Silver Springs, and a population of 45.

You can keep this family history alive by continuing to fill in the blank spaces.

An annual "Emanuel Henry Martin Family Reunion" is held, usually at Bailey's Shed in Oxford, Fla., the first Sunday in July.

James Samuel Martin in 1856, paid $200. for the cattle mark and brand of his deceased father Emanuel Henry Martin, I.

After returning from Texas, Harmon C. Martin went to Island Grove where he stayed with his brother James Samuel Martin. He taught school at Island Grove, and Elizabeth Jane Carlton was one of his students. He and Elizabeth were married Jan. 8, 1867.
